HONORS AND AWARDS

- 2018: Distinguished University Professor, University of Maryland. (The highest academic honor that the university can bestow on a faculty member. Four or five such awards are made annually, out of a faculty population of c.4,600.)
- 2018: Distinguished Visiting Fellowship, Rackman Humanities Institute, University of Toronto (declined).
- 2018: Romanell Lecture and Prize, American Philosophical Association. (One endowed lecturer is invited annually from within the broad area of naturalistic philosophy.)
- 2017: Eight of my papers on mindreading, metacognition, and consciousness in animals were collected together and translated into German, published as a separate volume by Turia & Kant press (Vienna).
- 2015: Economic and Social Research Council (UK) award (c.$400,000 over three years), for a project entitled, Metacognition and mindreading: one system or two? Co-investigator with Sophie Lind (Psychology, City University London, UK) and PI David Williams (Psychology, University of Kent, UK).
- 2013: University of Maryland Research and Scholarship Award (RASA) for Fall Semester 2013, to draft a book on the nature of human thought processes ($10,000).
- 2013: College of Arts and Humanities Faculty Service Award. (One is given annually.)
- 2011: Human Nature, Tracking, and Cognitive Architecture. A one-day workshop in June at Macquarie University (Sydney) organized around responses to my work.
- 2009: National Science Foundation Scholar's Award, number 0924523 ($218,970). Awarded by NSF's Science, Technology, and Society program, covering the two academic years 2009-2011 to produce a book on the cognitive science of self-knowledge.
- 2009: University of Maryland General Research Board (GRB) semester award for Fall Semester 2009, to begin work on a book on the nature of self-knowledge ($9,250).
- 2007: Visiting Research Scientist (July-August), Center for Adaptive Behavior and Cognition, Max Planck Institute for Human Development, Berlin.
- 2006: 17th Inter-University Workshop on Philosophy and Cognitive Science (Parma de Mallorca). A three-day workshop organized around responses to my work. Six of the eight papers were later published in a special edition of the journal Análisis Filosófico (2008) in either English or Spanish.
- 2004: Awarded the Canadian Journal of Philosophy prize for the best article published in the journal in 2004.
- 2004: University of Maryland GRB semester award for Fall Semester 2004, to draft a book on the architecture of the mind ($9,250).
- 2001: c.$600,000 from the UK's Arts and Humanities Research Board (AHRB) to fund a three-year research project on Innateness and the Structure of the Mind, involving cooperation between Sheffield's Hang Seng Centre, Stephen Stich's Evolution and Higher Cognition group at Rutgers, my own group at Maryland, and more than seventy other cognitive science researchers worldwide. Since it was already known in Fall of 2000 that I would be leaving the UK, the proposal could not go forward in my name as Director. The project resulted in three edited volumes of original interdisciplinary essays.
- 2000: British Academy Conference Grant.
- 1999: AHRB Research Leave Award for Spring Semester 1999, to complete a book on naturalistic explanations of phenomenal consciousness (c.$25,000).
- 1998: Mind Association Conference Grant.
- 1996: British Academy Conference Grant.
- 1994: British Academy Conference Grant.
- 1992: c.$120,000 from the Hang Seng Bank of Hong Kong, to found the Hang Seng Centre for Cognitive Studies. For the period 1992-2000 I organized all the projects, determined the programs, and invited the participants. I also acted as principal editor on the resulting four volumes of original interdisciplinary essays.
- 1978: Balliol College Graduate Scholarship.
- 1975: Major State Studentship for graduate study (three-year full scholarship).

MEDIA ACTIVITY

August 2018: I was interviewed via skype by Ricarado Lopes, whose YouTube website, The Dissenter publishes interviews with cognitive scientists for a Portugese audience with Portugese subtitles. The interview was published in September at: https://youtu.be/bf-Z\_RRbh2Q/.

March 2018: I was interviewed by the science editor for the German science magazine, Gehirn & Geist ("Brain & Mind") for an article on conscious and unconscious mentality; the interview was published in August. An English version of the interview was later published in Scientific American magazine in December 2018 at: www.scientificamerican.com/article/there-is-no-such-thing-as-conscious-thought/.

June 2017: I was interviewed by a member of the Imperfect Cognitions research network (UK) about my work on cognitive phenomenology. The interview was published in August on the network website at: <http://imperfectcognitions.blogspot.co.uk/>.

February 2017: I was interviewed by a research analyst for the Open Philanthropy Project about animal consciousness and moral status in relation to farm-animal welfare.

September 2016: I was interviewed by a South African science journalist writing an article about machine creativity for my thoughts on creativity in general and machine-creativity in particular.

April 2016: I was interviewed by an Academy-Award-nominated documentary film-maker about the nature and distribution of animal consciousness.

January 2016: An online poll of c.340 philosophers of mind on Brian Leiter's blog ranked me #31 among the most important Anglophone philosophers of mind of the post-WWII period (#20 among philosophers of mind now living). See: http://civs.cs.cornell.edu/cgi-bin/results.pl?id=E\_00fa106f4c4030b3

May 2014: I was interviewed by one of the editors of the Croatian student-run journal Scopus, about my view of philosophy generally as well as my own recent work in philosophy of mind. The interview was translated and published in the October issue of the journal.

April 2014: I was interviewed by a journalist for Scienceline in connection with an article he was writing on the evolution of consciousness.

March 2014: I was interviewed by a senior editor for Scientific American about my PNAS article on working memory in animals. A transcript of the interview was published on March 29 on the magazine's website at: <http://blogs.scientificamerican.com/talking-back/2014/03/29/working-memory-and-the-movies-streaming-in-our-heads/>

- October 2013: I was interviewed by a science writer for the German weekly Dei Zeit for background on the involvement of language in thought.
- November 2011: I was one of the first philosophers to be interviewed by a journalist at 3:am Magazine about my view of philosophy, and especially about my recent book #12. The interview was published on December 2 at: <www.3ammagazine.com/3am/mind-reader>. Shortly thereafter the interview was picked up by The Browser: Writing Worth Reading at: <thebrowser.com>.
– The interview is reprinted in R. Marshall (ed.), Philosophy at 3:AM: Questions and answers with 25 top philosophers, Oxford University Press, 2014.
- October 2010: I recorded an hour-long discussion on the topic of self-knowledge of propositional attitudes with Eric Schwitzgebel (UC Riverside) for the website Philosophy TV. The discussion was published on November 4, 2010 at: <www.philostv.com/peter-carruthers-and-eric-schwitzgebel/>.
- September 2010: I was interviewed by a journalist for Congressional Quarterly Researcher for an article on animal cognition, published as Vol. 20, #37, 869-892 (October 22, 2010).
- June 2010: I was interviewed by the New Scientist for an article on the influence of language on thought, published in Vol. #2776, September, 2010.
- January 2004: I was interviewed by New Scientist magazine for an article on creativity, published in #2441, April, 2004.
- September 2000: I was interviewed and recorded for a series of ten programs entitled “Do animals?” (think, talk, have conscious experience, have rights etc.), which were broadcast on the BBC digital Knowledge Channel in November 2000.
- March 1995: I took part in a radio debate on the rights of animals, broadcast on BBC Radio 4.
